Mr. Walker Talks to County Group

Mr. Lamkin Plans to Increase the Enrollment—Asks All To Co-operate.

A meeting of the officers of the county groups and the executive committee of the Northwest Teachers Association was called July 27. Mr. Walker, from the office of the State Teachers Association was present. He wished to enlist the county organizations of the college in the enrollment campaign for the State and District Teachers Associations.

Mr. Walker talked in regard to the work of the State Teachers Association. He said, "I am convinced that the development of education in Missouri is synonymous with the development of the Missouri State Teachers Association." He spoke of the progressive measures fostered by this organization, saying that the normal schools had been obtained after a twenty-year fight.

County supervision and teacher training high schools have been brought about largely thru the efforts of the State Teachers Associations.

The goal in enrollment for this year is 100 per cent. Last year the enrollment was 75 per cent of all teachers in the state. The county officers will work with county superintendents in order to reach the desired 100 per cent for this year.

President Richardson endorsed the plan as did President-elect Lamkin and Miss Brainerd, Miss Craven, Mr. Cooper and Mr. Duncan, all county superintendents who were present.

Following this meeting Mr. Lamkin spoke briefly before a group of county and city superintendents and school principals. In addition to members of the student body who belong in that group there were a number of visiting superintendents and also members of the executive committee of the Northwest Missouri District Teachers Association.

Mr. Lamkin stated that he was here in order to help keep our college growing, but that he would need the co-operation of the group before him before results could be accomplished. He stated that as part of his program for building up the school he intends to increase the commercial, the industrial arts and the agriculture departments. Mr. Lamkin feels that in order to strengthen our school the student body must be built up. This cannot be rightly accomplished until there is a dormitory on our campus.

At the close of this meeting, the ex-

Degrees and Diplomas To Be Given At the Last Assembly August 4.

The last assembly for the collegiate year ending August 4, 1921, will be held Thursday morning. This assembly at which degrees and diplomas will be awarded marks the close of the second largest summer session in the history of the college. Following a musical program by the orchestra, President Richardson will briefly express his appreciation to the student body for the encouragement and inspiration they have afforded him in his years of service for this institution. In-so-far as his plans are mature, President Richardson expects to spend a year at some university in study and in research work. This will be a rest for him after the detailed work of administration.

The following students are candidates for the degree of B. S. in Education: Alma Lucas, Anna Bainum, Sylvia Ratliff, Harvey Watson, Wave Hulet, Myrtle Ballard, S. C. Richeson, Ruby Melvin, Lillie Nelson, William Utter, Edna Turner, Bernice Rutledge, and Ira Fantz.

There are four candidates for the A. B. Degree: These are Hattie Hall, Jessie Cauffield, Anna Wells, Charles Wells.

There are twenty-one candidates for the elementary life diploma, twenty-eight for the provisional certificate and twenty-two for the elementary certificate.

Commercial Department Is Being Re-organized.

A revision of the commerce department, the installation of posting machines, adding machines and modern machinery used in commercial colleges is the plan for next year. This department will offer four courses, which carry a diploma. A one-year course in bookkeeping and stenography, a forty-hour course fitting the student to teach commerce temporarily in a high school. A two-year (sixty-hour) course for those who intend to teach in high schools. A four year course with forty-five hours of commerce for those intending to enter business or teaching or it may be counted on a B. A. degree. A four-year course in which commerce may be counted on a B. S. degree. Business principles are necessary in all lines of work, and the new courses will, no doubt, be very popular.

Executive committee of the Northwest Missouri District Teachers Association met to transact routine business and to discuss plans for the district meeting next fall.

"The Woman" Read By Miss Dow for Assembly July 26 Was Appreciated.

Miss Blanche Dow read "The Woman," with unusual ability, at assembly Tuesday morning, July 26. Miss Dow has given this reading before and it is always received with unlimited appreciation.

Certain humorous parts as well as some of the pathetic scenes moved one from bursts of laughter to tears. The characters, especially the political ones, were well portrayed. Anxiously quiet was the audience when the climax was reached.

Interest in that phase of English which deals with individual expression is very keen in this day and age and the college is fortunate in having such a capable teacher as Miss Dow, who has had much practical experience as she has played on the stage several seasons.

At the beginning of the assembly, President Richardson introduced President-elect Lamkin to the students and faculty. Mr. Lamkin, in a few well chosen words, thanked President Richardson for his courtesy and expressed his pleasure at meeting the college group.

A number of the town people came out to hear the reading. Some said they had heard it before and thought it so good they wanted to hear it again.

Among those present were Mrs. Colbert, Mrs. Milt Garrett, Mrs. Frank Garrett, Mrs. J. D. Richey, Mrs. Rickenbrode, Mrs. Archie Hulet, Dr. Jessie Clark, Mrs. Eugene Bird, Mrs. Torrance, Grace Langan, Mrs. Holwig and Miss Orel Helwig, Clara Sturm and Mrs. Edward Gray.

Dramatics Class Gives Play.

The class in dramatics gave Omelet and Oatmelia, a travesty on Hamlet in the auditorium, last Friday morning. The class did the coaching and made the costumes as well as playing the parts. The class in the Drama were guests of the dramatics class. The cast was as follows:

Omelet, Chas. Elmore; Oatmelia, Faye Townsend; Ghost of Chanticleer, Lola Cranor; Fradius, Birdie Ray; Bolonius, Gussie Dills; Postum, Miss Dow; Baconius, Mrs. Cauffield; Milk, Carrie Bean; Sunny Jim and Jim Dump, courtiers, Alma Eaton and Crystelle Cranor; Camelia Kidd, Georgia Rigney; Tonstein, the grave digger, Alma Lucas; Policeman, Bernice Rutledge and Bess Kemper. The scene of action was Castle of Ills, City of Illville and the time, Tomorrow.

Harvey Watson, visited friends at King City, July 16-17.

Williams-Mapel Win the Doubles

Tennis Holds Popularity—Eversole and Phipps Lose Last Game in Tournament.

William Mapel and O. C. Williams won the men's doubles championship of the college for the summer quarter. They defeated the Eversole and Phipps team in the finals, 6-8, 5-7, 6-4, 4-6, 6-4.

The tournament started Monday with Mapel and Williams winning from Bebout and Wells. The latter were expected to romp away with the championship but the former playing good tennis defeated them in straight sets, 8-6, 10-8.

The Bland and Richards team easily defeated Fred Kurtz and Ora McPherron, 6-2, 6-1. No real tennis was shown by either team on account of the high wind.

The third preliminaries found Eversole and Phipps winning from Roach and Pickens, 6-2, 6-4. The play was closer than the score would tell, many games going to deuce. By their victory Eversole and Phipps went into the finals because they had drawn a bye in the semi-finals.

In the semi-finals Mapel and Williams won from Bland and Richards, 4-6, 6-4, 6-4. After taking the first set easily and having a 4-1 lead on the second set, the Bland-Richards combination blew up and the others romped in the winners.

In the final round Friday afternoon, they completed their victory by the defeat of Eversole and Phipps.

Seniors Have Final Picnic.

The seniors of S. T. C. met Monday for a final frolic and love feast (food feast, also). They packed themselves and much food, fried chicken and angel food cake included, into cars and went over near Skidmore for a picnic. Miss Winn and Miss MacLeod, the senior sponsors, helped by their presence to make this last playtime of the class of 1921 a success.

The picnic Monday marked the close of a series of social events for this class. During the fall, winter and spring terms monthly luncheons were held at the college. At these luncheons the members of the senior class became well acquainted with one another and learned to play together. When the summer quarter arrived bringing with it more seniors, picnics became the order of the day. And now though senior picnics and luncheons and breakfasts are over they will long live in the minds of the class of 1921 as pleasant memories of a jolly group and of dear S. T. C.

Will This Happen to You?

He stood in the postoffice, that tired business man. That he was tired, could be plainly seen by the expression on his face. He had the drooping mouth and the wrinkled forehead, the characteristic signs of this condition.

One could tell by his clothes, that he was a success in the world. One could tell by his face and its expression that he was a college man. What impressed me most about the man was his restlessness. He would shift from one foot to the other; take out his watch and look at it; walk up and down the floor, and do everything that a person possibly could in such a limited space, as the corridor of a postoffice.

Each little noise would cause him to look up eagerly and when each time it turned out to be nothing, the smile would leave his face and he would continue his restless pacing, back and forth.

At last the window was raised. The man rushed to it and gave his name. He was given several letters and papers. He took them to a nearby table and running thru the bunch, picked out a small paper.

I wondered why he could act that way, after showing so much anxiety to get his mail. I moved closer. I must see this all important paper that had such control over the feelings of this man.

I was right behind him. He did not notice me as he was too absorbed in its news. I saw the title and then, I took hold of the man in joy. He was a fellow alumnus of mine. I now understood his feelings, because I had felt that way many times before. He was reading "The Green and White Courier."

Missouri Has Many Famous Authors.

Elizabeth Palmer Millbank writes from Chillicothe, Mo., of the Missouri Writers' Guild: "Probably the most distinguishing feature of the Missouri Writers' Guild is the number of 'Onlies' included in its membership. It has enrolled the only Augustus Thomas (born in St. Louis) the great living dramatist; the only Winston Churchill (born in St. Louis), the greatest American novelist; the only Harold Bell Wright, the sole American novelist who has become a millionaire through his writings; the only Sara Teasdale (born in St. Louis), America's sweetest lyric songstress; the only Fannie Hurst (born in St. Louis), the great short story realist of the era; the only woman major in the U. S. Army, Maude Rarforf Warren, who, though born in Canada, claims Missouri as her home; the only Mary Alicia Owens, the one white woman ever admitted into full membership in an Indian tribe, the last word in American folk lore, and better known in London, England, than in her home town, St. Joseph; the only Rose O'Neil, whose picture stories have delighted more people, young and old, than anything else of the sort except Palmer Cox's Brownies, and whose kewpies are sold at every street fair."

Missouri doesn't stop here, but claims Rupert Hughes, Zoe Akins, Leigh Mitchell Hodges, Randall Parish, Homer Croy, Louis Dodge, J. Breckenridge Ellis, Sophie E. Redford, Edna Kenton, Caroline Abbot Stanley, W. L. Nelson, and, with final flourish, Champ Clark, Mark Twain, and Eugene Field. Hooray for Missouri!

Departmental Notes.

Physical Education.

The class in general gymnastics, folk games, and aesthetic dancing had their pictures taken Wednesday. This class has done most of its work out of doors and the pictures were made out of doors.

The class in aesthetic dancing on the whole has done very good work since the work was practically new to all of them.

The feature of the last week's work is solo dances by different members of the class. The "Fairy Queen" and "Allegretti" by Chalif are the two solo dances taught.

The summer of physical training has been very enjoyable in spite of the warm weather. The classes have been enthusiastic and comparatively large and have done very good work.

The equipment of shower baths and dressing rooms has been the life savor of this department.

Velma Appleby, B. S. 1920, and Lillian Carpenter, B. S. 1920, have been majoring in physical education this summer.

Ruth Cline has also started to major in physical education. She will return this fall to continue her work.

Biology.

The entomology class has made especially fine collections of insects this summer.

The bacteriology class is studying plant and animal diseases this summer.

In connection with the work of the biology 11 class, a series of 250 exercises in nature study from many angles have been made by the students and may be purchased thru the college supply store at the cost of fifteen cents each.

Biology 11 spent Monday evening from 9 o'clock until 10 o'clock studying the sky.

Several persons are taking correspondence courses in biology this summer. Among them, Eugene Bird and Vera Hughes are finishing courses in Genetics. Mary Warford is finishing the Biology 11 course.

Commerce.

The class in Penmanship Methods has studied the teaching of penmanship with particular attention to the relation of posture and penmanship. Poor posture produces poor health and also poor penmanship, while good posture does the opposite.

Part of the class were salesmen of desks, the rest of the class being the school board and taxpayers. The agents presented several good desks from a hygienic standpoint. The metal desk was a favorite as it possessed strength, durability, and was sanitary.

The class is now studying writing as it should be presented to children of different ages.

Chemistry.

Analysis of Ryson Baking Powder by the applied chemistry class found approximately 22 per cent starch, 35 per cent baking soda, and 43 per cent (by difference) of sodium phosphate.

Education.

The school economy class is hearing a series of reports prepared by the individual members of the class concerning various problems of school material and instruction. Among topics to be reported on and discussed are the following:

Teachers Associations; Measurement of Teachers; Child Labor in Missouri; Smith-Lever, Smith-Hughes, Smith-Towner Bills; the Junior High School; Community Work; Training for Citizenship; School Libraries; and Play and Playground Supervision.

Agriculture.

A better yield was obtained from the hard wheat than from the soft wheat in the variety tests for wheat on the school farm, carried on by the University of Missouri, the State Teachers College co-operating. In the fertilizer tests for wheat, manure, and rock phosphate, and legumes with potassium and calcium, produced the highest yields.

The cereal crops classes have been making field trips for the purpose of identifying weeds and studying the action of bacteria on legumes.

One day will be given to inspect the school farm during the farmers' picnic, August 25 and 26. Several university men will be present and the work carried on the school farm will be explained.

Public Speaking.

The members of the Public Speaking are giving their final orations this week. This is the second oration for each member of the class to render during the term. The following are some of the orations given:

Y. W. C. A.

The devotional exercises at Y. W. C. A. July 27 were led by Miss Helwig.

Miss Helwig read an interpretation of the Twenty-Third Psalm which is printed below:

"The Lord is my Shepherd, I shall not want. I shall not want rest. 'He maketh me to lie down in green pastures.'"

I shall not want drink. "He leadeth me beside the still waters."

I shall not want pardon. "He restoreth my soul."

I shall not want guidance. "He leadeth me in the paths of righteousness."

I shall not want companionship. "Thou art with me."

I shall not want comfort. "Thy rod and thy staff, they comfort me."

I shall not want food. "Thou preparest a table before me in the presence of mine enemies."

I shall not want joy. "Thou anointest my head with oil."

I shall not want satisfaction. "My cup runneth over."

I shall not want anything in this life. "Goodness and mercy shall follow me all the days of my life."

I shall not want anything in eternity. "And I will dwell in the house of the Lord forever."

THE STROLLER.

Dear Stroller:

I may be what small children call a Copy Cat, but I hope you will not think me catty if I send you a contribution just to keep even with the Office Cat.

While the Office Cat has been prowling around and The Stroller sneaking around, I have been faithful to my duty, sitting in my Upstairs Window, watching the students and faculty.

I have seen the Stroller sneaking along behind Edith and Mike on the way to and from school, always listening, listening, to pick up something for the column. I have seen him steal a ride in the jitney just to see where Bill Utter was going. I have seen him haunt The Green Parrot just to see how often a certain couple dine together. For shame, Stroller, choose as I did, as I still do, a place from which you can see without seeming to sneak.

Now it took no sneaking whatever to discover that the Dean of Women does not allow girls to lie on the marble bench. Neither did it take any sneaking to see a certain person snooping into Miss MacLeod's office. Just keep your eyes open, Mr. Stroller, and pick up a few REAL facts. You might turn your attention to policing the library to see who it is that is stealing books as soon as class assignments from them are made. The Upstairs Window does not command a view of the library.

It does, however, command a view of College Park. Actual work going on there brings visions of our beautiful maples decorated like Christmas trees with campers' washings hung out to dry.

Speaking of Christmas, reminds me of Claude Thompson. One does not have to wait much longer for Christmas than Helen Dean has to wait for Claude to keep his dates. Perhaps this has no connection but we wonder why the said Claude meets the 11:45 Burlington every Wednesday and Friday.

What is the connection between dates and an apology, I do not know but Ruby Irwin does.

I went to St. Joseph the other day and picked up this bit: Liven's good between here and there especially after the moon sends its rays over the country roads. If you don't believe it just ask our King.

On my return I found that Bill Mapel had been trying to find out if George Elliott was a man or woman and that Big Bill and Inez were looking over a furniture catalogue. I also learned that Perrin Hall had a self-appointed Dean last Thursday night and that it had something to do with the fact that Vergil was not there.

And Dear Stroller, I have been collecting some remarkable remarks for you: Ira Fantz: "If half the things they say about me were true, how happy I would be."

Chas. Wells: "I'm going to cut out this running around and settle down."

Mr. Foster: "I suppose you realize that this is a very dramatic recitation."

Harley Bebout: "Cigarette smokers should be barred from inter-Collegiate athletics."

Loren Schnabel: "In other words, these surface feeding organisms grow so large that they starve to death."

Geo. Somerville: "The time to read the Green and White is just before going to bed, then you won't have anything on your mind."

For shame, George, say I, the Woman in the Upstairs Windows.

The Journal of Education of June 23 has the following to say about two Missouri educators.

"W. S. Dearmont, who retires from the presidency of the State Teachers College, Cape Girardeau, Mo., is one of the ablest State Teachers College presidents in the country and his retirement at the height of his usefulness is one of the most regrettable events of the year."

"Ira Richardson, eight years president of Missouri Teachers College at Maryville, has resigned to take effect in September. His administration has been much longer and more notable than any other in the history of the institution. During President Richardson's administration the work of the college and of the secondary department has been standardized so that the College now confers two degrees—Bachelor of Science in Education and Bachelor of Arts. Through his efforts the school has been put in Class A in the American Association of Teachers Colleges and has been approved by the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools. He has been one of the outstanding leaders in vitalizing country life through rural schools."

There is a singular coincidence in the educational experiences of these two men. They both grew up in Holt county in adjoining districts; both began teaching in the rural schools of Holt county; both were students of the State University, Mr. Richardson, however, received his undergraduate degree from Central College. Mr. Dearmont holds a Master's degree from Columbia University, New York.

When Mr. Dearmont taught his first term of school in the Pleasant Hill district, north of Mound City, Mo., Mr. Richardson was one of his pupils. Later Mr. Richardson was a pupil of Mr. Dearmont's for a period of five years in the public schools of Mound City, graduating from the high school while Mr. Dearmont was superintendent of schools. Both have served as County Commissioners of Schools, Mr. Dearmont in Holt county and Mr. Richardson in Shelby county; both have served as city superintendents and both retire from the presidency of a Missouri Teachers College at the same time and under somewhat similar conditions.

After the game a delicious feed was served by the eats committee. They served pimento cheese and ham sandwiches, potato and fruit salads, pickles, ice cream and cookies, and lemonade.

A delightful time was reported by the entire thirty-two who turned out for the occasion.
